Excerpt: . . . 1. Introduction The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) provides information to assist policymakers, researchers, educators, and the public in obtaining a comprehensive picture of what U. S. students know and can do in key subject areas. Information on such learning outcomes can be valuable in helping to inform policy, monitor and benchmark progress, and identify factors for improving student achievement, among other benefits. National-level data on student achievement in the United States comes primarily from two sources: the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) - otherwise known as the Nations Report Card - and the United States participation and collaboration in international assessments, such as the Trends in International Mathematics and Science Study (TIMSS), the Program for International Student Assessment (PISA), and the Progress in International Reading 1 NAEP has been assessing fourth-, eighth-, and twelfth-grade students Literacy Study (PIRLS). performance in reading, mathematics, science, and other subjects at regular intervals for over 30 years. The international assessments allow the...
