The Government Accountant Published every month under the auspices of the Association of American Government Accountants Entered at tecorui-clatt matter at the poet office at Washington, D. C. Vol. 1 JANUARY. 1908 No. 9 The Preparation of Suits for the Recovery of Balances Due to and from the United States. An address by W. W. Scott, Law Clerk in the office of the Auditor of the State and other Departments, before the Association of American Government Accountant. --November 12, 1907. THE UNITED STATES AS PLAINTIFF. Broadly stated, the history of the accounting system may be divided into three periods, governed by the great general law of evolution: (1) The first period, extending from September 2, 1789, to March 3, 1817, and covering the embryonic, experimental stage, discovers obscurely the slow and laborious process of reaching out after a system, the distinctive feature of which was a tentative rather than a definitive adoption of methods. (2) The second period, extending from March 3, 1817, to July 31, 1894, was characterized in the beginning by a policy of elimination, of the addition of new methods and of transformation of old methods, from which was gradually evolved a system. (3) The third period, beginning July 31, 1894, and still subsisting, is chiefly distinguished from the second as inaugurating a readjustment and a reorganization of the second, the evolution being continued along the same essential lines. FIRST PERIOD SEPTEMBER 2, 1789, TO MARCH 3, 1817. During this period the...
