WTO accession by China is often seen as the most significant event about China in the last decade, even ahead of the Taiwan Independence issue, which continues to penetrate world news periodically. Since the end of the Cultural Revolution in 1978, China has been on a course of economic reform. Today, Chinese are richer than ever before in history, with the country itself having experienced extended periods of extraordinary growth, even throughout recent events such as the Asian crisis (Morck and Yeung 2000). Along side the other international organisations in operation today, the WTO has played an important role in liberalising and regulating global markets (WTO Secretariat 2000). It covers numerous aspects of economic and trade globalisation such as commodities trade, services trade, investments relating to trade, intellectual property rights relating to trade, mechanisms on trade policy deliberation and dispute settlement, transparency of regulations, and sustainable development (Linggguang 2001). Wallach (1999) rightly expects that the WTO will continue to advance global liberalisation through multilateral rules. Entering the WTO is...
